Head of Health Hygeia –Daughter of Asclepius

The exhibit of the National Archaeological Museum No. 3602 is ancient Greek sculpture showing the head of the goddess Hygeia. Found in 1900 or 1901 in the French excavations at Tegea. The marble head is very well preserved, and retains all the features. It was built by the ancient Greek sculptor Scopas.

President's Message

The Athens Institute for Education and Research (ATINER) is pleased to announce the publication of a number of peer reviewed, open access journals of original research work. Most of the articles will be selected from the numerous papers that have been presented at the various annual international academic conferences organized by the different research divisions and units of the Athens Institute for Education and Research. The plethora of papers presented every year will enable the editorial board of each journal to select the best, and in so doing produce a top quality academic journal. In addition to papers presented, ATINER will encourage the independent submission of papers to be evaluated for publication.

The current issue is the fourth of the Athens Journal of Health published by the Health Research Unit of the Athens Institute for Education and Research (ATINER).

The Head of the Health Research Unit is member of the Editorial Advisory Board. The Academic Members of the research unit are members of the Editorial Board and will assist the editor and the Editorial Advisory Board with the peer reviewing of all submitted papers. Currently, the academic members of the five research units consist of over 100 international experts from about 50 countries.

Gregory T. Papanikos

President

Athens Institute for Education and Research
